

Andreas Irmen is a Professor of Macroeconomics and Applied Microeconomics at the University of Luxembourg and a research network fellow of the Center for Economic Studies (CESifo) in Munich, Germany.

He received his Ph.D. in Economics from the University of Lausanne, Switzerland. Andreas Irmen held visiting positions at Brown University, the Paris School of Economics, the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT), Harvard University, and at the Carl Melchior Minerva Center for Macroeconomics and Growth of the Hebrew University, Jerusalem, Israel.

His current areas of research include Growth and Development Economics, Public Finance, Population and Cultural Economics. He has published widely in top academic journals. His teaching and research has been recognized with several prizes, awards and scholarships.